The dream of flying has preoccupied man since time immemorial. The fascination of discovering distance destinations and overcoming distances quickly resulted in the demand to optimize travelling times from the aspect of comfort. Meanwhile, airline companies offer their passengers a wealth of on-board possibilities: Relaxing sleep in a bed above the clouds with a generously sized area for maximum of privacy is not just available in First-Class any more today. An increasing degree of comfort is evident in the Business Class e.g. the Emirates Business Class with the partitioned cabins, designed in the French Pierrejean design studio, or with the "Space bed" in the New Raffles Class at Singapore Airlines, which was designed by Ludeke Design in co-operation with Avio Interiors, which offers even more sleeping area.

This book takes you behind the facades and provides a comprehensive look at exciting and impressive aircraft cabin interiors.
