The aim of Studio Works is to capture the essential character of the design studio experience at the Harvard University Graduate School of Design. It provides both an overview and vignettes of the life of design students at Harvard, and an archive of their speculations and deliberations.

Studio Works 12 features outstanding GSD student work from school years 2005-2006 and 2006-2007, along with material documenting exhibitions, research seminars, and thesis projects.
